

There are no thorough reviews and rankings of the various food outlets on campus at USC-Columbia. Though there are reviews for each of these places on their individual websites, there is no photographic evidence to prove that most of these people tasted the food and on top of that I have yet to see someone ranking the various food outlets on campus.